

REMITZIONE

When hell runs a horror ride,
no one is safe.

Overview

A 2D pixel-art roguelite adventure where bizarre comedy collides with creepy monsters and absurd challenges.

Explore a procedural cursed attraction packed with secrets and absurd encounters—your ultimate goal: rescue lost celebrities.

Why It's Unique

Accessible chaos

Active combat that's simple to pick up, with depth coming from creative item use rather than hardcore reflexes.

Bizarre comedy

A mix of scares, acid humor and absurd laughs rarely seen in the genre.

The haunted ride

A cursed horror ride with its own twisted logic, instead of generic dungeons or caves.

Adventure spirit

A LucasArts-style retro atmosphere fused with pixel art and roguelite tension—a mix of nostalgia, absurd humor, and unforgiving stakes.

Target & Market

Core audience

- ★ Roguelites fans (Spelunky, Binding of Isaac).
- ★ Players who enjoy dark humor and absurd comedy (South Park, Adult Swim).
- ★ Gamers who like quirky pixel-art indie hits.

Market fit

- ★ Roguelites remain one of the strongest indie genres, and our bizarre mix of humor, pixel art, and accessible combat positions the game to stand out in a crowded market.
- ★ Distinctive identity: procedural yet narrative-driven, grotesque yet funny.

Story & Setting

The attraction

Snuggleville's amusement park was once home to Remizione, a grotesque horror ride built by an obsessive designer.

The incident

During its grand opening, twelve celebrities—and the designer himself—entered... and never came back.

The unexpected heroes

Years later, twins Edmund and Berta Idle sneak inside to investigate.

The evil curse

What they don't know is that the attraction is now ruled by Mandinga—the Devil himself, who as a child dreamed of owning a horror ride his parents never allowed and he's not giving it up now.

Core Mechanics

Stages

Each stage has a time limit. Defeat Mandinga's corrupted dolls to absorb their electricity and ride to the next level.

Runs

Each run lasts 10-20 minutes. Permadeath resets the run, but variety in items and events keeps every attempt fresh.

Main characters

Each twin has a health bar and can unlock exclusive areas later shared between both.

Active combat

Simple to pick up, with depth coming from creative item use rather than hardcore reflexes.

Progression

Procedurally generated

Unpredictable layouts, traps, and encounters every run.

Celebrities

Rescue twisted parodies of real-world celebrities, with bizarre rewards (acid humor guaranteed).

Narrative meta-goals

Layers of mystery and long-term objectives beyond survival.

Atmospheric lighting

Darkness itself becomes an obstacle—sometimes only your items can pierce it.

Perks & Flaws

Temporary or permanent states that twist your run (e.g., overeat fast food and end up gassy mid-fight).

Inventory

Junk

Odd gadgets you can equip to whack, poke, or do something questionably useful.

Consumables

Eat or drink anything: from healing snacks to chili-powered speed boosts.

Key items

Scene-specific tools for interacting with the environment.

Trinkets

Passive oddities with quirky powers. One at a time, so choose wisely.

Perks & Flaws

Temporary and fixed states that twist your run and force players to adapt on the fly.

For example, overeat fast food and you might end up gassy, pausing mid-fight to clutch your stomach.

Core Gameplay Loop

A pixel art illustration of a town at night. In the background, a large Ferris wheel is visible against a dark sky. To the left, a church with a tall steeple and a bell tower stands. In the foreground, there are several buildings, including a small shop with a striped awning and a larger building with a sign that says "HOTEL". The scene is lit with a warm, orange glow, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The text "Look & Feel" is written in a stylized, orange font across the middle of the image.
